Who Am I?

My name is Tala, and I am 19 years old. I moved to Ireland when I was nine years old. Growing up in a different country has allowed me to experience two cultures and develop a broader perspective on the world. My journey as an immigrant has shaped my identity and helped me appreciate both my background and the opportunities that come with living in a multicultural society.

What My Photo Means

This image shows a shisha being shared in a social setting, a practice that is common in many North African communities. For North African immigrants, traditions such as gathering around shisha can help maintain cultural identity and strengthen social connections in their host countries. These spaces often serve as places where people share experiences, preserve cultural customs, and build a sense of community while adapting to a new environment.
